

House Plants to avoid for Cats and Dogs

As a fur-parent to a cat or dog, or if you are someone thinking about adopting a new addition into your family, please keep this fact in mind when it comes to plants in your household.

There are plants that have bad effects on animals. If any part of the plant-stems, leaves, blossoms, and pollen are ingested and this goes unattended it can result in poisoning and/or kidney failure. If this happens, please contact your veterinarian or poison control hotline as soon as possible.

A few examples of plants to avoid having in your household include:

- Lillies and Peace Lily
- Autumn Crocus
- Azalea
- Cyclamen
- Daffodils
- Oleander
- Mistletoe
- Kalanchoe
- Dieffenbachia
- Tulips
- Hyacinths
- Sago Palm
- Amaryllis
- Castor Bean
- Chrysanthemum
- Pothos
- English Ivy

To see the partial list of poisonous plants please click on the photo or go to <https://www.petpoisonhelpline.com/pet-owners/basics/top-10-plants-poisonous-to-pets/>

*Please note that this plant list is not meant to be all-inclusive, but rather a list of the most frequently encountered plants. There are additional plants not listed here you need to be aware of as well.